

Every year, more than three million children nationally are reported abused or neglected. Despite the states' attempts to help, many of these kids become trapped in the court and child welfare maze and can spend their childhood moving from one temporary shelter to another.

This is where you step in by becoming a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) volunteer.

As a CASA volunteer, you can speak up for the best interests of a child in court. CASA volunteers review records, research information and talk to everyone involved – social workers, attorneys, judges, parents, teachers, family members and, of course, the children themselves. Volunteers then present their recommendation to the court as to what they feel is best for the child.

We welcome volunteers from all cultures, professions, ethnic and educational backgrounds.

Become a CASA volunteer and be rewarded with some of the most powerful and fulfilling experiences you can find!
